

WHAT IS AN INTRODUCTORY TRAINING PROGRAMME AND WHAT DOES IT DO FOR ME?

An entry-level qualification is an internship in a company that is subject to social insurance contributions and lasts 6 to 12 months. You will receive a salary and travel expenses. The chances of being taken on are very good.

Entry qualifications are possible in many training occupations in the dual system. Information is available from the employment agency, the chambers of industry and commerce and the chambers of skilled trades.

EQ company coaches will support you - free of charge throughout Baden-Württemberg, even at your place of residence!

EQ COMPANY COACHING

Are you looking for an apprenticeship and would like to qualify for it in a company beforehand?

CONTENTS

An EQ company coach will help you to find an introductory training programme in your desired occupation and a suitable company. You will receive advice, support and training before and during the introductory qualification and have a competent contact person at your side for all questions relating to training and careers.

BENEFITS

We clarify your professional situation in regular coaching sessions, find out your strengths and skills and plan your entry into working life together.

- We carry out intensive and individualised job application training with you.
- We invite you to take part in workshops on interesting topics related to work and training once a week.
- We also offer digital seminars and workshops.
- We accompany you during the entry qualification and support you in the company.
